FOREWORD BY THE CHAIRMAN

Honourable Speaker,

This Report was prepared and submitted pursuant to standing order 224 of the Senate Standing Orders, which mandates the Liaison Committee to compile the sessional reports of all select committees of the Senate and to submit a consolidated report to the Senate.

Honourable Speaker,

This Report goes beyond a mere account of the number of meetings held, Bills considered, Statements processed and county visits undertaken by the Committees. It highlights how Committees interrogated critical issues affecting the public, including the utilisation of public resources, the effectiveness of service delivery and the extent to which devolution is meeting the expectations of citizens. Particular attention is given to the lived realities of Kenyans, such as whether a mother can access quality and timely healthcare services in county facilities, whether farmers are receiving fair returns for their produce and whether the necessary road infrastructure, markets and industrial investments exist to support value addition and local economic development.

The Report also examines broader policy issues shaping Kenya's development trajectory, including the implementation of the Competency Based Curriculum (CBC), the integration of technology and innovation in governance and service delivery, and the role of public institutions in fostering an enabling environment for inclusive growth.

By presenting both quantitative outputs and qualitative insights, the Report provides a comprehensive reflection of the work of Senate Committees in addressing emerging national and county-level challenges, strengthening accountability and advancing the constitutional mandate of the Senate to protect and promote the interests of counties and their governments.

Honourable Speaker,

During the Fourth Session, Committees held a total of one-thousand, one hundred and seventy-two (1,172) meetings and processed legislative business including fifty-three

(53) Bills, thirty (30) Petitions and three hundred and ninety-eight (398) Statements, while the Liaison Committee held twenty (20) meetings. During its meetings, the Liaison Committee considered matters falling within its mandate including the status of legislative business; guided and coordinated the operations, policies and mandates of all committees; apportioned the annual budget among the committees; and gave advice relating to the work and mandate of select committees. The Committee further held a Work Planning Retreat at the commencement of the Session, where it considered the performance and output of Committees including successes, challenges, innovations and opportunities for enhancing the efficiency and effectiveness of Committee operations.

Honourable Speaker,

Chapter 1 of the Report contains an introduction to the committee system and the legal provisions governing the establishment, mandate and operations of Senate Committees. It also highlights the administrative role of the Directorates of Committee Services which facilitate and support the work of Senate Committees.

Chapter 2 highlights the activities of Senate Committees during the Fourth Session, including the number of meetings held, key activities, outputs and emerging trends.

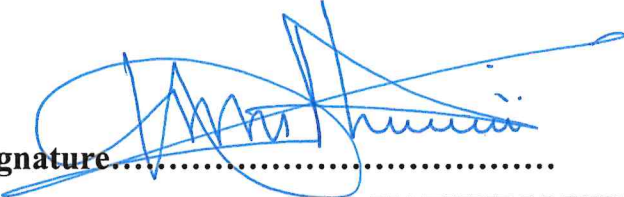

Chapter 3 concludes with an analysis of the key achievements recorded during the Session, challenges experienced and opportunities identified that could further enhance the operations and output of committees. A detailed report on the status of legislative business handled in the Fourth Session as well as an analysis of the key emerging issues, trends achievements, recommendations for future interventions and pending issues across all Committees are contained in matrices in Annexes 1 and 2 of this report respectively.

Honourable Speaker,

I take this opportunity to commend the Chairpersons of all Committees of the Senate for the tremendous work done during the Fourth Session in facilitating the discharge of the Senate's representative, legislative and oversight constitutional mandates.

I also wish to appreciate the Members serving in the various committees for their dedication to duty, without which the committees would not have managed to transact the legislative business committed during the Session. I finally wish to thank the Offices of the Speaker and the Clerk of the Senate for the support extended to committees in carrying out their respective mandates.

Pursuant to standing orders 223(6) and 224(2) of the Senate Standing Orders, it is now my pleasant duty to present the report of the activities of Senate Committees during the Fourth Session of the Thirteenth Parliament.

DEPUTY SPEAKER OF THE SENATE/CHAIRMAN, LIAISON COMMITTEE

CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background to the Committee System

1. The committee system provides a structured and effective mechanism through which the Legislature exercises oversight over government policies and actions in greater depth than would ordinarily be possible in the debating chamber. Through committees, Parliament is able to examine issues in detail, interrogate matters of public concern and review legislative proposals in a more focused and systematic manner. The committee structure also enables the Legislature to undertake multiple activities simultaneously and efficiently, facilitating bipartisan dialogue among Members while building consensus on critical national issues.
2. In addition, committees provide an institutional platform for conducting inquiries, undertaking field and county visits, and engaging directly with stakeholders and citizens. This process strengthens evidence-based decision making and places strong emphasis on public participation by inviting oral and written submissions from the public, civil society and other stakeholders. Through these mechanisms, committees enhance transparency, accountability and responsiveness in the legislative process while ensuring that the voices and lived experiences of citizens inform parliamentary deliberations.
3. Committees are generally mandated to-
 - (a) investigate, inquire into and report on all matters relating to the mandate, management, activities, administration and operations of the assigned Ministries and departments and agencies;
 - (b) pursuant to Article 96(3) of the Constitution, to exercise oversight over national revenue allocated to the county governments;
 - (c) pursuant to Article 229(7) and (8), to examine the reports of the Auditor-General on the annual accounts of the county governments;
 - (d) review proposed laws in detail, allowing for thorough examination before they are presented for debate at the Plenary;

- (e) scrutinize whether a statutory instrument complies with the provisions of the Constitution, the Act pursuant to which it is made and other relevant written laws;
 - (f) consider reports of Commissions and Independent Offices submitted to the Senate pursuant to the provisions of Article 254 of the Constitution; and
 - (g) follow-up and report on the status of implementation of resolutions within their mandate.
4. Committees focus attention on specific issues and engender meaningful deliberations. They study issues and report back to the House, which allows Senators to focus their attention on a subject matter, study it in detail, deepen their understanding of the issue(s) and make informed decisions.
5. The Committee setting enhances the ability of Senators to be productively engaged in the workings of Parliament. During committee meetings, Members discuss issues less formally and are less constrained by party discipline which enables them to inter-relate with colleagues across different parties. Committees further provide forums for public and stakeholder engagement which allows them to understand how laws are made and how their input can influence decisions.

6. Committees also perform functions which the House is limited to perform in its corporate and collective form, such as—
 - (a) inviting members of the public and stakeholders to present oral evidence and written memoranda;
 - (b) sitting as frequently and longer as is desirable and sitting away from the precincts of the Senate;
 - (c) availing an environment for presentation of details, sifting through evidence and formulating reasoned recommendations; and
 - (d) carrying out inspection visits in the counties and conducting inquiries into various matters of national concern.

CHAPTER 2: COMMITTEE ACTIVITIES DURING THE FOURTH SESSION

2.1 Introduction

40. During the Fourth Session of the Thirteenth Parliament, Senate Committees processed legislative business through legislative proposals, Bills, Petitions, Statements, Motions and statutory instruments. The Committees also undertook inquiries, county and international visits and hosted visiting delegations.
41. The detailed analysis of legislative business transacted during the Session across all Committees is attached to this Report as Annex 1.

During the period under review, the Senate Liaison Committee held twenty (20) meetings during which the Committee considered the status of legislative business; guided and coordinated the operations, policies and mandates of all committees; apportioned the annual budget among the committees; and gave advice relating to the work and mandate of select committees.
43. Further, the Liaison Committee held one Work Review and Planning Retreat. The Retreat was held in April, 2025 in Mombasa County to review the operations and performance of the Senate Committees, and identify challenges and best practices during the past three Sessions. 2.5 Highlights of Committee Output in the Fourth Session

49. The output of the Committees during the Fourth Session of the Thirteenth Parliament was marked by extensive legislative processing, robust oversight and the resolution of numerous public interest matters. This section highlights key activities and outputs of Committees during the Fourth Session—

(1) Allocation of National Revenue to and among the County Governments

50. One of the core mandates of the Senate as outlined in Article 96 (3) of the Constitution is to determine the allocation of national revenue among counties, as provided in Article 217 and exercise oversight over national revenue allocated to the county governments. Some of the key issues that emerged under this thematic area included—

(a) Allocation of National Revenue to County Governments

51. During the Fourth Session, the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget considered the Division of Revenue Bill, 2025 and the County Allocation of Revenue Bill, 2025, which determine the share of nationally raised revenue allocated to county governments. Following mediation between the Senate and the National Assembly on the Division of Revenue Bill, the Senate approved an allocation of Kshs. 415 billion to county governments for the Financial Year 2025/2026, representing an increase from Kshs. 387.425 billion in the previous financial year. The Committee facilitated public participation on the Bills and tabled reports which guided the Senate during debate and approval of the allocations.

(b) Passing of the Fourth Basis for Equitable Sharing of National Revenue

52. Pursuant to provisions of Article 216 and 217 of the Constitution, the Committee on Finance and Budget considered the recommendations by the Commission on Revenue Allocation on the Fourth Basis for Equitable Sharing of National Revenue among the County Governments. Consequently, the Committee prepared and tabled its report which guided the Senate during debate on the Motion on the Approval of the Fourth Basis for Allocating the Share of National Revenue among counties for the Financial Years 2025/2026 to 2029/2030. The adoption of the Fourth Basis established the parameters for the distribution of county allocations for the five-year period.

(c) Cash Disbursement Schedules for County Governments

53. The Standing Committee on Finance and Budget also considered the County Governments (Equitable Share) Cash Disbursement Schedule for FY 2025/2026 and the County Governments (Additional Allocations) Cash Disbursement Schedules. The Committee tabled reports on these schedules which guide the monthly transfer of funds from the National Treasury to County Revenue Funds and enable counties to plan the implementation of devolved functions.

(d) Additional Allocations to County Governments

54. The Standing Committee on Finance and Budget further considered the County Governments Additional Allocations Bill (Senate Bills No. 1 of 2025), which provides for conditional and unconditional grants to county governments from the national government and development partners. The Bill was processed to provide a legal framework for the transfer of additional allocations to counties for sector-specific programmes.

(e) Timeliness of Disbursement of County Funds

55. Concerns regarding delays in disbursement of funds to county governments emerged during engagements by the County Public Accounts Committee with the Cabinet Secretary for the National Treasury and Economic Planning while considering reports of the Auditor-General on the financial statements of county governments. The Committee observed that delays in adherence to the approved cash disbursement schedules disrupted implementation of county programmes and undermined financial planning by county governments. The Senate therefore emphasised the need for strict adherence to approved disbursement schedules.

(2) County Financial Accountability and Public Finance Management

56. Article 96(3) of the Constitution assigns the Senate the responsibility of exercising oversight over national revenue allocated to county governments. During the Fourth Session, financial accountability emerged as a critical cross-cutting concern across several committees of the Senate.
57. The consideration of the Reports of the Auditor-General and Controller of Budget on the Financial Statements of County Governments, County Assemblies and County Entities, committees identified systemic weaknesses in financial management and public finance administration that expose county governments to significant fiduciary risks.

58. In this regard, the County Public Accounts Committee examined 141 audit reports relating to County Executives and County Assemblies, while the County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee scrutinised 257 audit reports relating to county corporations, funds and other devolved entities. Analysis of these reports revealed widespread issues relating to pending bills, statutory deductions, procurement irregularities and inaccuracies in financial statements. Key issues that emerged during the Fourth Session included–

(a) Debts and Pending bills

59. During the period under review, the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget, while considering matters relating to intergovernmental fiscal relations and county financial management, highlighted the growing accumulation of pending bills amounting to approximately Kshs. 181.9 billion across county governments. The Committee undertook oversight visits to Migori, Kitui, Kisii and Busia counties to assess financial management practices at the county level. The Committee observed that the accumulation of pending bills undermines county creditworthiness, disrupts private sector participation in public procurement and hampers effective service delivery.

60. The matter of pending bills was further examined by the County Public Accounts Committee during its scrutiny of the Auditor-General's reports on county financial statements, where counties were found to have accumulated significant debts to contractors and suppliers.

Photo 6: Standing Committee on Finance and Budget during an oversight visit in Busia County in October 2025

(b) Discrepancy in Financial Reporting

61. During examination of the reports of the Auditor-General on county governments, the County Public Accounts Committee observed widespread deficiencies in financial reporting. These included failure by counties to maintain accurate accounting records, resulting in discrepancies between figures reported in financial statements and balances reflected in the Integrated Financial Management Information System (IFMIS). The Committee further noted instances where payments were processed outside the IFMIS platform, thereby bypassing established public financial management controls.
62. In addition, the County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee observed that several autonomous county entities including municipal boards and Level IV and Level V hospitals that failed to submit their financial statements to the Auditor-General as required under the Public Finance Management Act, 2012, thereby weakening accountability in the management of public resources.

(c) Breaches of Public Procurement Laws

63. During the review of the Auditor-General's reports on county entities, the County Public Accounts Committee and the County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee identified widespread breaches of the Public Procurement and Asset Disposal Act (Cap. 412) These breaches included irregular sourcing of goods and services, contract splitting to circumvent procurement thresholds and unauthorised contract variations.
64. In addition, the Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations, while examining governance challenges within county governments, observed that counties incurred substantial legal expenses through external law firms despite having established Offices of the County Attorney.
65. The Standing Committee on National Cohesion, Equal Opportunity and Regional Integration also examined county compliance with the Access to Government Procurement Opportunities (AGPO) programme and raised concerns regarding inadequate inclusion of youth, women and persons with disabilities in county procurement processes.

(d) Mismanagement of Dedicated Funds

66. The County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee, in the course of scrutiny of Auditor-General's reports on county funds and corporations, the Committee identified widespread mismanagement of dedicated funds, including bursary funds, education funds and revolving loan facilities. Further, the Committee observed cases of unsupported disbursements, where institutions receiving bursary allocations failed to provide acknowledgement receipts to confirm receipt of funds. For example, Bungoma County disbursed Kshs. 166 million in bursary funds without official receipts to support the expenditure for audit purposes.

67. The Committee also identified irregularities in the management of revolving funds, including car loan and mortgage schemes, where approval procedures were not followed and loan recovery mechanisms were weak. In West Pokot County, the Committee found that over 80% of overdue loans were owed by the former Governor and Deputy Governor, raising serious governance concerns.

(e) Violation of Statutory Limits

68. Analysis by County Public Accounts Committee further revealed that counties consistently violated statutory limits regarding budget allocation and personnel emoluments. The Committee observed that only 11 counties complied with the statutory ceiling limiting expenditure on personnel emoluments to 35% of total county revenue. In contrast, 16 counties spent more than 50% of their revenue on wages, largely due to irregular recruitment practices and the existence of “ghost workers”. The Committee also noted instances where development funds were diverted to recurrent expenditure without approval by County Assemblies, contrary to the provisions of the Public Finance Management Act (Cap. 412A).
69. Similarly, the Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations, during its inquiry into the low absorption of development budgets in county governments, identified weak planning and poor project management as key contributors to the diversion of development funds.

(f) Weaknesses in County Revenue Collection Systems

70. Concerns regarding weaknesses in county revenue collection systems were examined by the Standing Committee on Information and Communication Technology through an inquiry into the automation of county revenue collection. The Committee examined the JamboPay/WebTribe revenue collection system used at Busia County Referral Hospital and established that the County had paid Kshs. 59 million for the system, which remained only partially functional and was largely controlled by external vendors rather than county staff. The Committee raised concerns that such arrangements exposed county governments to revenue leakages and undermined the integrity of automated revenue collection systems.

(3) Governance of Counties and Implementation of Devolved Functions

71. Governance of county governments and the implementation of devolved functions remain central to the realisation of the objectives of devolution as set out in the Fourth Schedule of the Constitution. During the Fourth Session, several Senate Committees examined issues relating to the management of county governments, intergovernmental coordination and the execution of devolved functions. These matters arose through the consideration of legislative proposals, Statements referred to committees, Petitions from the public, Auditor-General reports and committee inquiries. The analysis of these engagements revealed systemic and recurring governance challenges cutting across county governments, which continue to undermine accountability, institutional effectiveness and the delivery of devolved services. These challenges may be categorised into key thematic areas as follows—

(a) Gaps in Governance, Accountability and Management of County Governments

72. During the Fourth Session, the Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations, identified persistent governance and accountability challenges within county governments. The Committee observed weaknesses in administrative and institutional structures, including unclear roles within county Executive arms (for example between Governors and Deputy Governors), overlapping responsibilities between political and technical officers and limited institutional capacity to support effective planning, implementation and monitoring of county programmes.
73. The Committee also observed recurring governance crises within County Assemblies, including leadership wrangles, disruptions to legislative business and strained relations between County Assemblies and County Executives. These issues were found to weaken the oversight role of County Assemblies. Further, concerns regarding the misuse and politicisation of public resources, including the branding of public projects with political imagery and prioritisation of projects based on political considerations rather than development needs.
74. Governance challenges were also evident in the management of human resources and payroll systems, including irregular recruitment practices, existence of “ghost workers” and weak payroll controls. These findings were reinforced by the work of the County Public Accounts Committee and the County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee during their consideration of the Auditor-General’s reports on county financial statements. In addition, the concerns regarding the continued engagement of external legal firms by county governments despite the existence of Offices of the County Attorney, were identified as leading to duplication of roles and unnecessary expenditure.
75. The Standing Committee on Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights considered the County Governments (State Officers’ Removal from Office) Procedure Bill, 2024, which seeks to establish a clear legal framework for the removal of county officials, including governors and members of county executive committees, thereby strengthening accountability mechanisms at the county level.

76. The Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations further identified low absorption of development budgets and stalled projects as a persistent governance challenge, attributed to weak project planning, delays in procurement and poor coordination within county departments. This issue was corroborated by findings from Auditor-General reports considered by the County Public Accounts Committee and the County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee.
77. In consideration of applications for conferment of city status, the Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations identified governance gaps in the management of urban areas. The County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee similarly observed, through its consideration of the Auditor-General's reports on municipalities, that many municipalities lack financial, administrative and operational autonomy, resulting in weak financial reporting and stalled development projects.

(b) Unclear Delineation of Functions between the National and County Governments

78. During the period under review, the Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations observed that several National Government Ministries and Departments and Agencies (MDAs) continue to perform functions that are constitutionally devolved, leading to duplication of roles, inefficient use of public resources and undermining of county autonomy. The Committee further noted weaknesses in intergovernmental coordination, particularly in the planning, funding and execution of shared functions during engagements with institutions such as the Intergovernmental Relations Technical Committee (IGRTC).

79. The Committee also established that the unbundling and transfer of devolved functions remains incomplete, due to delays in transfer of resources, personnel and institutional capacity.

Photo 8: The Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations during its inquiry into the operational and leadership crisis affecting the County Assembly of Nyamira.

(c) Tracking Implementation of Devolved Functions

80. During the Fourth Session, several Committees assessed the implementation of devolved functions by county governments in key sectors including education, health, agriculture, infrastructure, social services and Information, Communication and Technology, through the work of the Standing Committees on Education; Health; Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries; Roads, Transportation and Housing; Labour and Social Welfare; and Information and Communication Technology, among others.
81. Across these sectors, Committees identified specific implementation challenges including inadequate funding of devolved services; shortages of infrastructure such as Early Childhood Development Education (ECDE) classrooms, health facilities and road networks; and poor remuneration and staffing gaps in critical sectors such as education and health. Additionally, committee raised concerns on weak procurement and supply chain systems, particularly in the health sector; limited agricultural extension services and support to farmers; ineffective management of automated revenue and Information and Communication Technology systems.

82. Committees further observed weak monitoring and evaluation frameworks, mismatch between assigned functions and available resources, and delays in the transfer and disbursement of funds, which collectively continue to constrain effective service delivery at the county level.

(4) Trade and Industrialisation

83. Trade, industrialisation and economic development emerged as a critical thematic area during the Fourth Session, primarily through the work of the Standing Committee on Trade, Industrialization and Tourism, with strong interlinkages to outputs from the Standing Committee on Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries, the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget, the Standing Committee on Land, Environment and Natural Resources and the Committee on Delegated Legislation. Some of the highlights include—

(a) Industrial Development in Counties

84. The main focus of the Standing Committee on Trade, Industrialization and Tourism was the advancement of industrialisation as a driver of economic transformation and job creation. The Committee initiated an inquiry into the establishment and implementation of County Aggregated Industrial Parks (CAIPs), noting that 19 counties had each received Kshs. 500 million for the development of these Parks. The inquiry sought to assess progress, utilisation of funds and the potential of County Aggregated Industrial Parks to support value addition, agro-processing and decentralised industrial growth.
85. The Committee further examined the leasing of public sugar companies, including Nzoia, Chemelil, Sony and Muhoroni sugar factories, engaging both the Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock Development and the Privatization Commission. This matter highlighted broader concerns regarding the revitalisation of agro-based industries, protection of farmers' interests and the role of industrial policy in supporting agricultural value chains. These issues intersect with the work of the Standing Committee on Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries, particularly in relation to commodity value chains, farmer incomes and agro-processing gaps, demonstrating that industrialisation in Kenya remains closely tied to the performance of the agricultural sector.
86. The Standing Committee on Trade, Industrialization and Tourism also examined regulatory and standards-related issues affecting industrial development and consumer protection. Through Statements, it considered concerns regarding the quality of cement in the Kenyan market, measurement systems at national and county levels, and compliance with standards across sectors.

87. The Standing Committee on Energy also considered matters relating to the modernisation of the energy sector, including the adoption of smart metering technologies and the promotion of local manufacturing, and observed a growing shift towards digitalisation, localisation and efficiency reforms within the sector. The Committee noted that counties faced persistent inefficiencies in electricity distribution, including revenue losses, inaccurate billing and delays in the deployment of modern systems, which have affected service delivery

(b) Business Environment in Counties

88. The Standing Committee on Trade, Industrialization and Tourism undertook legislative review aimed at strengthening the business environment and supporting enterprise development. Key legislative outputs included the consideration of the Start-up Bill (Senate Bills No. 14 of 2022), the Creative Economy Support Bill (Senate Bills No. 30 of 2024), the Cooperatives Bill, 2024, and the Business Laws (Amendment) Bill (Senate Bills No. 54 of 2024). These legislative initiatives sought to enhance the regulatory framework for innovation, entrepreneurship, cooperatives governance and ease of doing business, particularly for Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs).
89. The Committee further identified challenges affecting the business environment, including financial instability in Savings and Credit Cooperative Organisations (SACCOs), demolitions affecting small-scale traders, asset recovery practices affecting businesses and barriers to enterprise growth. These concerns were reinforced by broader findings from the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget, particularly regarding resource constraints, pending bills and fiscal pressures affecting businesses and county economies.
90. During the Fourth Session the Standing Committee on Energy deliberated on issues of unequal access to electricity, underfunded last-mile connectivity projects, and heavy reliance on the national grid for public utilities such as street lighting. For instance, the Committee observed that in Kisumu County, electricity connectivity was estimated at approximately 68%, with notable gaps in informal settlements and delays in transitioning to solar street lighting due to budgetary constraints, while Wajir County remains off-grid and dependent on localized power generation, exacerbating energy insecurity and limiting economic development.

(c) Trade Policy and Market Access

91. Trade policy and market access emerged as key issues through Statements considered by the Standing Committee on Trade, Industrialization and Tourism, particularly in relation to both domestic and international trade dynamics. Matters raised included the impact of tariffs on Kenyan exports, such as the 10% tariff imposed by the United States, proliferation of imported dairy products, and concerns regarding rice importation quotas and their impact on local producers.
92. These issues reflect broader structural challenges in Kenya's trade environment, including competition from imports, limited export competitiveness, weak trade protections for local industries and inconsistencies in trade policy implementation. The linkages with the Standing Committee on Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries are evident, particularly where imports directly affect local agricultural production, further reinforcing the need for coherent trade and agricultural policies.

(d) Tourism Development and Local Economic Growth

93. Tourism was also addressed as a key component of economic development. The Standing Committee on Trade, Industrialization and Tourism considered Statements relating to the promotion and marketing of tourist sites, tourism potential in counties such as Kisumu and Eastern Kenya, and the management of tourism resources in areas such as the Maasai Mara.
94. These issues highlighted challenges in tourism infrastructure, marketing, coordination between national and county governments and equitable sharing of benefits from tourism resources. They also intersect with environmental concerns raised by the Standing Committee on Land, Environment and Natural Resources, particularly in relation to wildlife conservation, ecosystem protection and sustainable use of natural resources.

(5) Constitutional Affairs and Electoral Reforms

95. The Standing Committee on Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights (JLAHRC) has been at the forefront in addressing matters relating to constitutional affairs and electoral reforms during the Fourth Session. The Committee's work in this area largely involved pre-publication scrutiny and legislative processing of constitutional amendment and other Bills, consideration of Petitions and Statements and engagement with stakeholders on electoral reforms, aimed at strengthening governance, accountability and democratic processes in Kenya.

(a) Constitutional Amendments

96. During the period under review, the Standing Committee on Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights, through its mandate of pre-publication scrutiny and legislative processing of Bills, considered several proposals seeking to amend the Constitution of Kenya.
97. The Committee considered the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill, 2025 (Senate Bills No. 13 of 2025), which proposed to clarify the respective roles of the National Assembly and the Senate and introduce specific procedures for the consideration of financial legislation, aimed at strengthening the Senate's constitutional oversight mandate and enhancing the efficiency of the bicameral legislative process.
98. The Committee further considered the Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 2025 (Senate Bills No. 16 of 2025), which sought to amend the Constitution to implement the principle that not more than two-thirds of the members of elective or appointive bodies shall be of the same gender and the principle that at least 5% of the members of elective and appointive bodies should be persons with disability.

99. As part of the legislative process, the Committee facilitated stakeholder engagements and public participation on Bills, including public hearings held during the Senate Mashinani programme in Busia County, thereby reinforcing the role of citizen engagement in constitutional reform processes.
100. In addition, the Committee considered a draft Constitution of Kenya (Amendment) Bill, 2025, proposing that former Governors be ineligible for election as Senators or Members of County Assemblies for a period of five years after leaving office, in order to allow for the completion of accountability processes undertaken by the Senate and to safeguard the integrity of oversight mechanisms.

(b) Electoral Governance and Democratic Processes

101. During the Fourth Session, the Standing Committee on Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights, through its consideration of Petitions, Statements, legislative proposals and stakeholder engagements, undertook review and oversight activities aimed at strengthening the integrity, transparency and inclusiveness of electoral processes, particularly in preparation for the 2027 General Elections. The Committee convened engagements with state and non-state actors, including a meeting with the Kenyans in the Diaspora Technical Working Group, to deliberate on priority legal and policy reforms required to enhance diaspora voting and broader electoral participation.
102. The Committee also considered a draft Referendum Bill, intended to provide a comprehensive legal framework for the conduct of referenda in accordance with Articles 255, 256 and 257 of the Constitution, as part of ongoing efforts to strengthen constitutional implementation mechanisms.
103. In addition, the Committee processed the Election Offences (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 2024, which proposes to strengthen electoral integrity by creating offences relating to the use of ungazetted polling stations and the unreasonable delay in the declaration of election results, addressing emerging vulnerabilities in electoral processes.

104. The Committee further examined Statements referred to it on the review of constituency and electoral boundaries and the criteria for designation of polling stations outside the country, highlighting concerns regarding electoral preparedness, inclusivity and the integrity of electoral processes.

(c) Policy and Legislative Framework on Public Participation

105. The Committee considered Sessional Paper No. 3 of 2023 on the Kenya Policy on Public Participation, which seeks to standardise public engagement processes in policymaking and legislative development, thereby entrenching public participation as a core constitutional governance principle across institutions. The Committee tabled its report in the Senate following which the Senate approved the Policy, paving way for introduction in Parliament of the Public Participation Bill.

(6) Human Rights, Social Inclusion and National Cohesion

106. Issues relating to human rights, social inclusion and national cohesion emerged across several Senate Committees during the Fourth Session, notably the Standing Committee on Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights; the Standing Committee on National Cohesion, Equal Opportunity and Regional Integration; the Standing Committee on National Security, Defence and Foreign Relations; and the Standing Committee on Labour and Social Welfare.
107. These issues arose through the consideration of legislative proposals, Statements referred to committees, Petitions from the public and committee inquiries, highlighting concerns relating to access to justice, protection of vulnerable groups, inclusivity in public institutions and national cohesion. They include—

(a) Administration and Access to Justice

108. During the period under review, the Standing Committee on Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights through its legislative and oversight mandate, undertook initiatives aimed at improving the efficiency, accountability and accessibility of the justice system. These included interrogation of the State of the Judiciary and the Administration of Justice Annual Report (SOJAR) for Financial Year 2023/2024, consideration of a Statement on access to justice by a minor in Homa Bay County, as well as consideration of a Statement on the appointment of a female Judge to the East African Court of Justice (EACJ)
109. Additionally, the Committee considered Statements on the state of the Judiciary, which raised concerns regarding the efficiency, independence and responsiveness of judicial and quasi-judicial institutions. These engagements highlighted the need to strengthen institutional capacity, improve access to justice and enhance public confidence in governance and judicial processes.

(b) Human Rights and Social Justice

110. The Standing Committee on National Security, Defence and Foreign Relations further considered a legislative proposal, the Colonial Reparations Bill, 2025, which seeks to establish a framework for addressing historical injustices and compensation.
111. The Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights Committee further examined a range of issues relating to the protection of fundamental rights and freedoms, particularly for vulnerable and at-risk populations. The Committee considered and approved publication of the Counter-Trafficking in Persons (Amendment) Bill, 2025, which seeks to address emerging forms of exploitation, including child trafficking in orphanages and orphanage tourism.

112. In addition, the Committee considered Petitions and Statements on human rights violations, including cases relating to defilement and incestuous impregnation of a minor in Homa Bay County, criminalisation and re-victimisation of survivors of female genital mutilation (FGM), and alleged abductions and enforced disappearances. These matters highlighted ongoing challenges in the protection of fundamental rights and access to justice for vulnerable populations.
113. The Committee also initiated an inquiry into the status of indigenous peoples in Kenya, aimed at assessing the recognition and protection of indigenous communities within governance frameworks. This inquiry highlighted challenges relating to land rights, marginalisation and limited access to public services among indigenous populations.

Catherine Mumma, MP on the alleged defilement and incestuous impregnation of a minor from Kigoto Village in Suba Sub-County, Homa Bay County

(c) Security and Emerging Threats

114. The Standing Committee on National Security, Defence and Foreign Relations highlighted growing concerns related to forced disappearances, human trafficking, police excesses and protection of vulnerable groups.
115. Notably, the Committee considered a Petition concerning the forced disappearances of fishermen at Lake Nakuru National Park and undertook a county visit to engage affected communities and stakeholders, reflecting a shift towards more citizen-centred oversight of security agencies. Additional issues included gender-based violence, trafficking and humanitarian crises involving Kenyans abroad particularly in the Gulf region, pointing to the need for stronger institutional coordination and protection frameworks.

(d) Inclusiveness and National Cohesion

116. The Standing Committee on National Cohesion, Equal Opportunity and Regional Integration conducted an inquiry into inclusivity within state agencies and county governments. The Committee conducted county visits to Bomet, Kisii, Kisumu, Homa Bay and Busia, where it assessed the level of inclusion of women, youth, persons with disabilities and minority communities in county governments and public institutions. The visits provided an opportunity to engage with county officials, community leaders and stakeholders on the extent to which public institutions reflect the diversity of local communities.
117. The Committee also considered Statements relating to the socio-economic inclusion of the Daasanach community in Marsabit County, equity in employment within Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET) institutions, and the recognition of minority communities in urban counties, highlighting persistent inequalities in access to opportunities and representation.
118. The Committee further assessed county government compliance with diversity requirements and the implementation of the Access to Government Procurement Opportunities programme, identifying gaps in the inclusion of marginalised groups in public procurement processes.

119. In addition, the Standing Committee on Labour and Social Welfare considered Petitions and Statements relating to persons with disabilities, including issues of invisible disabilities and inaccessibility of public infrastructure, and processed the Persons with Disabilities Bill, which has since been enacted as the Persons with Disabilities Act (2025). These outputs revealed gaps in the implementation of legal frameworks, access to healthcare and rehabilitation services and inclusion of persons with disabilities in public life.

(e) Social Protection and Welfare

120. The Standing Committee on Labour and Social Welfare, through its consideration of Petitions, Statements, Bills and an Inquiry, examined systemic gaps in social protection systems affecting vulnerable populations. The Committee considered Petitions on non-payment of terminal benefits and pension dues, including the case of former employees of Kenya Cooperative Creameries (KCC), Kenya Railways Corporation and the Technical University of Kenya Staff Retirement Benefits Scheme, which exposed weaknesses in pension administration and enforcement of statutory obligations.
121. The Committee also addressed concerns on the management of social assistance programmes such as the Older Persons Cash Transfer (OPCT) and Inua Jamii Programme, which highlighted concerns regarding delayed disbursement and inadequate coverage.

(f) Labour Relations and Employee Conditions

122. The Standing Committee on Labour and Social Welfare examined a wide range of labour-related issues arising from Statements and Petitions, particularly concerning unfair labour practices, non-remittance of statutory deductions, delayed salaries and gratuities and irregular recruitment processes in county governments.

123. Issues relating to labour migration also featured prominently, with the Committee considering Statements on the plight of Kenyan migrant workers in the Middle East and government labour export programmes such as Kazi Majuu, which raised concerns regarding the protection of migrant workers, regulation of recruitment agencies and adequacy of welfare support systems. Further, through its Inquiry into the welfare of workers in Export Processing Zones (EPZs) in Mombasa and Kilifi Counties, the Committee identified challenges relating to working conditions, labour rights compliance and social welfare of workers, underscoring the need for strengthened labour regulation and enforcement mechanisms.

(g) Parliamentary Diplomacy and International Cooperation

124. The Committee reviewed Sessional Paper No. 1 of 2025 on the Foreign Policy of the Republic of Kenya, which addresses emerging issues such as diaspora engagement, global security dynamics and international cooperation. These engagements underscore the intersection between immigration, foreign policy, historical justice and national identity within Kenya's governance framework.

125. In advancing Kenya's engagement with regional and international governance frameworks, the Standing Committee on Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights in collaboration with the Standing Committee on National Cohesion, Equal Opportunity and Regional Integration, undertook a benchmarking visit to the East African Court of Justice in Arusha, Tanzania on 4th and 5th June, 2025. The visit provided an opportunity for the Committees to enhance their understanding of the role of regional judicial institutions in promoting the rule of law, human rights and regional integration within the East African Community. It further strengthened parliamentary oversight of Kenya's obligations under regional treaties, while promoting knowledge exchange and institutional learning.

(7) National Security, Immigration and Disaster Management

126. National security, immigration and disaster management emerged as a critical thematic area during the Fourth Session, primarily driven by the work of the Standing Committee on National Security, Defence and Foreign Relations. The Committee undertook extensive legislative and oversight activities reflecting a wide spectrum of security, governance and humanitarian concerns across the country. The key issues considered included—

(a) Internal Security and Public Safety

127. The Standing Committee on National Security, Defence and Foreign Relations addressed a broad range of internal security issues through Statements, Petitions and inquiries. A significant proportion of Statements related to insecurity incidents, including banditry in Laikipia County and other North Rift regions, inter-communal clashes within Narok and Migori Counties, insecurity in Isiolo and Samburu Counties, rising cases of murder, abductions and disappearances across the country. Further there were concerns related to police conduct and accountability, including inquiries into deaths in police custody, allegations of police brutality.

128. The Committee considered issues relating to the safety and welfare of police officers, including poor living conditions and delayed compensation for work related injuries. Through a Petition on the compensation of police officers injured in the line of duty, the Committee engaged key institutions including the Insurance Regulatory Authority, National Police Service Commission and Directorate of Occupational Health and Safety, and issued specific directives requiring settlement of pending claims and adherence to legal frameworks under the Work Injury and Benefits Act. These engagements highlighted systemic challenges in policing accountability, welfare of officers, enforcement of human rights standards and effectiveness of internal security responses.

(b) Organised Crime and Substance Abuse

129. The Committee undertook inquiries into emerging threats to social stability, including the rise of organised criminal gangs in coastal counties such as Kwale, Mombasa and Kilifi, which were found to contribute to public insecurity, disruption of economic activities and erosion of social cohesion. Additional concerns emerged through Statements on drug and alcohol abuse, particularly among youth, and the resurgence of cult-like activities, reflecting evolving and complex security threats linked to social and economic conditions.
130. Legislative interventions such as the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (Control) (Amendment) Bill, 2024 (Senate Bills No. 1 of 2024) were considered to address regulatory inconsistencies and socio-economic implications, including the classification of miraa and its impact on livelihoods.

(c) Disaster Management

131. Disaster management emerged as a significant issue, particularly through the Standing Committee on National Security, Defence and Foreign Relations inquiry into firefighting and disaster management by devolved governments. The Committee noted that disaster management is a shared function between the national and county governments, while firefighting is fully devolved. The Committee further observed gaps in county preparedness, including inadequate investment in disaster response infrastructure, weak coordination mechanisms and limited implementation of early warning and mitigation systems, despite statutory requirements for counties to allocate resources for disaster management.
132. Through Statements, the Committee examined disaster-related incidents including flooding in Turkana and Kisumu, fire outbreaks, displacement of communities due to rising water levels in Lake Naivasha and Lake Turkana, and broader concerns regarding national preparedness for heavy rains and climate-related disasters. The Committee recommended enhanced oversight of county governments, including requiring Governors to account for utilisation of disaster management funds, strengthening coordination frameworks and improving infrastructure and response systems.

(d) Immigration and Citizenship

133. The Standing Committee on National Security, Defence and Foreign Relations also addressed issues relating to immigration and citizen services through Statements, legislative proposals and policy review processes. Key issues included delays in issuance of national identity cards, status of repatriation of Kenyans in distress abroad, and concerns regarding foreign nationals operating in informal sectors, reflecting challenges in immigration management and citizen services.

(8) Roads, Housing and Infrastructure Development

134. Issues relating to infrastructure development, roads and housing featured prominently during the Fourth Session through the work of the Standing Committee on Roads, Transportation and Housing, the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget and the Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations. These issues arose from the consideration of Statements, Bills, Petitions, legislative proposals and county oversight visits, highlighting systemic challenges in infrastructure financing, maintenance, intergovernmental coordination and implementation of national development programmes at the county level. Key issues include—

(a) State of Roads in Counties

135. The Standing Committee on Roads, Transportation and Housing, through its consideration of Statements and county oversight visits, examined the condition and maintenance of road infrastructure across counties. The Committee undertook county visits to Embu, Turkana, Marsabit, Busia, Uasin Gishu and Mombasa Counties, where it assessed road conditions, inspected ongoing projects and engaged stakeholders.

136. Key issues emerging from these engagements included poor maintenance of road networks, blackspots and stalled or delayed road projects. In Turkana County, the Committee observed that several roads had been destroyed by flooding, significantly disrupting transport connectivity. Similarly, inspections in Marsabit County, including roads such as Ndanaba Road and Loiyangalani town roads, revealed infrastructure gaps in arid and semi-arid regions. In response, the Committee held engagements with the Ministry of Roads and Transport, Kenya Urban Roads Authority (KURA), Kenya National Highways Authority (KeNHA), National Transport and Safety Authority (NTSA) and county governments to seek clarification on project timelines and funding allocations. The Committee recommended the need for enhanced financing, better road maintenance and timely completion of road construction projects.

(b) Equitable Share of Roads Maintenance Levy Fund (RMLF)

137. The Standing Committee on Roads, Transportation and Housing engaged with the Ministry of Roads and Transport on the disbursement of the Roads Maintenance Levy Fund conditional grant to counties. The Committee examined the existing allocation framework and noted that it disproportionately favours national road agencies, limiting county capacity to maintain road networks. Consequently, the Committee resolved to sponsor amendments to the Roads Act (Cap. 408) to designate county governments as road agencies, and establish a formula for equitable allocation of Roads Maintenance Levy Fund resources to counties.

138. The issue further manifested during the processing of key public finance legislation by the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget, where delays in passage of the County Governments Additional Allocations Bill, 2025 were linked to disputes over county government access to the Roads Maintenance Levy Fund, affecting the flow of funds and implementation of infrastructure projects.

(c) Public Transport Management

139. The Standing Committee on Roads, Transportation and Housing considered multiple Statements on urban transport challenges, which highlighted congestion and infrastructure constraints along key transport corridors. These included Statements on traffic gridlock on Port Reitz Road in Mombasa County, the expansion of Kiambu Road into a four-lane highway and the Green Park pedestrian underpass.
140. The Committee also considered a Petition on public transport in Lake Victoria between Mfangano Island and Mbita in Homa Bay County and conducted a county visit to Mfangano Island to assess the safety, accessibility and reliability of water transport services. The committee observed that ferry operations along the Mbita–Mfangano route were grounded following safety compliance concerns and that the absence of a reliable and safe ferry service has severely affected access to essential services including education and healthcare.
141. The Committee recommended the Ministry of Roads and Transport prioritizes the provision of public ferry and the construction of the proposed 54-kilometre Mfangano Island ring road to bitumen standard to complement the ferry transport.

(d) Implementation of Affordable Housing Projects

142. Under housing matters, the Standing Committee on Roads, Transportation and Housing considered Statements on the implementation of affordable housing projects in Kisumu County, as well as a Petition concerning eviction and demolition of Buxton Estate in Mombasa County. The Committee engaged former tenants, the Governor of Mombasa County and developers to ensure that affected residents are prioritised in the allocation of housing units in redevelopment projects, including Buxton Estate, Mzizima Estate and Likoni Flats.
143. The Committee further engaged the Ministry of Lands, Public Works, Housing and Urban Development on the implementation of the Affordable Housing Projects, including financing, affordability of the housing units and transparency in their allocation, as well as the role of county governments in housing development and urban planning.

This was during consideration of a Petition concerning the eviction and demolitions of Buxton Estates in Mvita Constituency, Mombasa County

(9) ICT and Innovation

144. During the Fourth Session, the Senate considered various technology-related aspects of county governance, through the processing of legislative proposals, Bills, Statements and inquiries by Committees. Among the key issues were –

(a) ICT Systems for Public Finance Management and Revenue Automation

145. The Standing Committee on Information, Communication and Technology undertook an inquiry into IFMIS and other County Revenue Collection and Management Systems during which it examined system integrity and functionality, integration of county revenue systems, vendor dependency, external control of digital systems, revenue leakages and weak oversight mechanisms. This inquiry, during which the Committee met the National Treasury, Controller of Budget, the Auditor-General and the county governments, directly linked ICT governance with public finance accountability.

146. In the course of its inquiry, the Committee visited eleven counties, where it Committee observed significant disparities in automation, system ownership and operational capacity, with many counties relying on externally controlled systems that exposed them to risks of data manipulation, revenue loss and weak accountability frameworks. These findings reinforced issues earlier identified by CPAC and CPISFC regarding financial leakages and weak internal controls, demonstrating the critical intersection between ICT systems and fiduciary risk in counties.

(b) Digital Governance, Data Protection and Cybersecurity

147. The Committee further examined emerging risks relating to data protection, digital identity systems and cybersecurity, through the consideration of Statements concerning data breach affecting the Business Registration Service (BRS) platform, data management and security of the e-Citizen platform and Maisha Namba system, increasing cases of data abuse by electronic device dealers and sharing of subscriber data by telecommunication providers with security agencies.

148. These issues revealed growing concerns regarding unauthorised access to personal data, weak enforcement of data protection laws and vulnerabilities in digital public infrastructure. The Committee engaged the Ministry of Information, Communication and the Digital Economy, the Communications Authority of Kenya and the Office of the Data Protection Commissioner, where it emphasized the need for stronger regulatory oversight, enforcement mechanisms and citizen data safeguards.

(c) ICT Infrastructure Development, Service Regulation and Digital Inclusion

149. The Committee also examined the expansion and governance of national ICT infrastructure, particularly under the Universal Service Fund (USF) and national digital connectivity programmes. This was through the processing of Statements on the administration of the Universal Service Fund (USF) and the implementation of the National Digital Superhighway and Last Mile Connectivity Projects.

150. Further, through stakeholder engagements with the Ministry of Information, Communication and the Digital Economy, the Communications Authority of Kenya Telkom Kenya and private sector actors, the Committee identified challenges relating to infrastructure ownership and sharing frameworks, regulatory compliance by service providers and network reliability and service quality. Additional concerns emerged from Statements on non-implementation of Mobile Termination Rates (MTR) and quality of telecommunication services, highlighting the need for consumer protection, fair pricing and improved service standards.

(d) Legislative Framework for ICT Development and Innovation

151. The Committee processed key legislative instruments aimed at strengthening Kenya's ICT ecosystem, including the Technopolis Bill, 2024 (National Assembly Bills No. 6 of 2024), the Electronic Equipment Disposal, Recycling and Reuse Bill, 2025 (Senate Bills No. 5 of 2025) and a Legislative Proposal on the Artificial Intelligence Bill, 2025. These legislative efforts sought to promote innovation and technology-driven economic growth, establish frameworks for sustainable e-waste management, and provide a foundation for regulation of emerging technologies and artificial intelligence. The Committee carried out public participation, stakeholder engagement and technical review of these Bills, ensuring alignment with digital transformation objectives and environmental sustainability considerations.

(10) Agriculture and Food Security

152. Agriculture and food security remained central to the realisation of devolved functions under the Fourth Schedule of the Constitution, particularly because of the sector's importance to livelihoods, household welfare, county economies and national stability.

153. During the Fourth Session, issues arising under this thematic area included land use, irrigation, environmental degradation, pollution and natural resource pressures affecting production systems. These revealed persistent challenges affecting agricultural productivity, market systems, food safety, pastoral resilience and the ecological foundations of food production. Key highlights included–

(a) Agricultural Production, Inputs and Food Systems Governance

154. A major area of focus during the Session was the governance of agricultural production systems, including seeds, crop regulation, farmer incentives and food safety. The Standing Committee on Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries considered several key Bills, including the Coffee Bill, 2023 (Senate Bills No. 10 of 2023), the Food and Feed Safety Control Coordination Bill, 2023 (National Assembly Bills No. 1 of 2023), the Seeds and Plant Varieties (Amendment) Bill, 2025 (Senate Bills No. 4 of 2025), and the Agriculture Produce (Minimum Guaranteed Returns) Bill, 2025 (Senate Bills No. 17 of 2025). These legislative interventions sought to strengthen agricultural value chains, improve quality control, reform sector governance, enhance access to certified and climate-resilient inputs, and provide a more stable framework for farmer returns.
155. These efforts corresponded to a high number of crop-related Statements touching on recurring production and market constraints. Matters raised before the Committee included the shortage of certified seeds at Kenya Seed Company (KSC), inequitable fertiliser distribution by the National Cereals and Produce Board (NCPB), the plight of wheat farmers due to imported wheat, the state of rice farming and irrigation-based production in Kisumu and Mwea and concerns regarding tea pricing, coffee payment systems and post-harvest losses. These issues point to persistent weaknesses in input distribution, price support, production planning and institutional coordination across agricultural value chains. They also show that food security challenges are not limited to low production, but extend to the wider governance of food systems, market incentives and farmer protection.
156. The Committee on Delegated Legislation considered and acceded to the Pest Control Products Regulations, Legal Notice Nos. 190 to 194 of 2024. This complemented the legislative work of the Agriculture Committee on crop quality, value chains and farmer protection.

(b) Livestock Development and Climate Vulnerability

157. The livestock sector emerged as a distinct but interlinked food security concern, especially in the context of drought, disease outbreaks and fragile pastoral livelihoods. The Standing Committee on Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries considered the Livestock Protection and Sustainability Bill, 2024 (Senate Bills No. 32 of 2024) which sought to provide a framework for safeguarding livestock from adverse conditions and promoting sustainable support systems for livestock farmers. Although the Committee found significant gaps requiring further refinement, the Bill itself reflected the growing urgency of strengthening legal and policy responses to climate-related livestock losses and vulnerability of pastoralists.
158. Through Statements on the ongoing livestock vaccination programme, quality and safety of animal feeds and broader livestock sector challenges, the Committee highlighted recurrent problems in animal health, veterinary support, market access and resilience for pastoral communities. These concerns overlapped with the work of the Standing Committee on Land, Environment and Natural Resources, which considered environmental and land-use matters affecting grazing lands, drought conditions, water access, wildlife pressures and natural resource stress in arid and semi-arid areas. The recurring pattern across both committees was that food security in pastoral regions is increasingly shaped by climate stress, weak service delivery and ecological fragility rather than by production issues alone.

(c) Blue Economy and Fisheries

159. The issues of blue economy and fisheries were also treated as part of the broader food security agenda, particularly in counties where fishing is central to livelihoods and local diets. The Standing Committee on Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries considered Statements on the protection of Lake Turkana's fishing ecosystem and the establishment of a national dry fish auction market in Busia County. The Committee also undertook field engagements at the Beach Management Unit in Busia County during Senate Mashinani bringing attention to market organisation, ecosystem protection and the broader state of fisheries value chains.

160. These matters intersected with concerns before the Standing Committee Land, Environment and Natural Resources on pollution of Lake Victoria, broader environmental degradation and natural resource governance. The Committees established that fisheries and aquatic livelihoods are affected by a combination of weak market systems, inadequate infrastructure and environmental stress on lakes and other ecosystems. This makes fisheries both a production issue and an environmental governance issue within the broader agriculture and food security agenda.

(d) Irrigation and Water Resource Management

161. Water and irrigation emerged as foundational issues for agricultural productivity. The Standing Committee on Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries considered Statements on irrigation systems, including concerns regarding the management and use of operation and maintenance funds in the Mwea Irrigation Scheme in Kirinyaga County, while also examining post-harvest systems such as the mobilisation of grain dryers during the rainy season and the need to reduce storage-related losses. The Committee's oversight visits to Kenya Seed Company (KSC), National Cereals and Produce Board (NCPB), Kenya Agricultural and Livestock Research Organization (KALRO) and production sites in Bungoma, Kisumu and Busia Counties further brought out gaps in storage and farm support infrastructure.

162. At the same time, the Standing Committee on Land, Environment and Natural Resources considered multiple Statements and Petitions on water scarcity, irrigation-linked projects, water supply systems and sanitation infrastructure. These included a Petition on the Changara Water Pan project in Busia County and Statements on the status of Konoo Irrigation Scheme in Turkana County, construction of Koru-Soin Dam in Kisumu County, implementation of Mzima II Water Project in Taita-Taveta County as well as access to piped water in various counties. These issues affect irrigation reliability, access to water for livestock, household resilience and sustainable farming practices in high-potential and arid counties. The overlap across the two Committees shows that weak irrigation and management of water resources remain one of the most recurrent structural constraints to food security.

(11) Land Administration, Environmental Management and Climate Change

163. Land management, environmental protection and climate change emerged as a key thematic area during the Fourth Session, principally through the work of the Standing Committee on Land, Environment and Natural Resources, but with relevant intersections from the Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries Committee and the Committee on Delegated Legislation. These issues revealed persistent governance challenges relating to land administration, environmental degradation, climate vulnerability, water systems and the protection of community and ecological rights. Some of the key highlights that emerged included—

(a) Land Administration, Historical Injustices and Community Rights

164. The Standing Committee on Land, Environment and Natural Resources devoted substantial attention to land administration and ownership, historical injustices, evictions and resettlement Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs). The Committee dealt with matters relating to illegal alienation of land, delayed compensation of Internally Displaced Persons, unresolved settlement claims, threats of eviction, land grabbing, title deed delays, adjudication disputes and historical injustices in counties such as Mombasa, Taita Taveta, Embu, Narok, Nairobi and Meru. The Committee conducted public hearings, site visits, engaged stakeholders including the Ministry of Lands and the National Land Commission to pursue redress and accountability. This showed that unresolved land questions remain one of the most persistent governance challenges within devolution, with direct effects on social justice, settlement planning and resource access.

(b) Environmental Management and Conservation

165. Environmental protection emerged strongly through the Committee's consideration of the Environment Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2024, (Senate Bills No.23 of 2024) the Meteorology Bill, 2023, (Senate Bills No.45 of 2023) and the Environment Management and Co-ordination (Amendment) Bill, 2023 (National Assembly Bills No. 66 of 2023), alongside a substantial number of Statements on forests, pollution, waste management, wildlife habitats and mining activities. These legislative and oversight processes highlighted the persistent implementation gap in environmental protection.
166. Through Statements, the Committee addressed a range of issues of environmental matters including forest degradation, quarrying impacts, regulation of sand harvesting and broader waste management failures in counties. These issues pointed to weak compliance and enforcement, environmental damage from both public and private activities, and increased public concern over the health impacts of pollution.
167. The Committee on Delegated Legislation reinforced this theme through its scrutiny of environmental regulations. During the Session, it considered and acceded to the Environmental Management and Co-ordination (Waste Management) (Amendment) (No. 2) Regulations, the Sand Harvesting (Amendment) (No. 2) Regulations, the Air Quality (Amendment) (No. 2) Regulations and the Access to Biological Resources and Benefit Sharing (No. 2) Regulations.
168. Further, the Standing Committee on Lands, Environment and Natural Resources addressed Kenya's greenhouse gas emission reduction targets and implementation of the Climate Change Act, 2016 (Cap. 387A). In this respect, in its consideration of the Division of Revenue and County Allocation of Revenue Bills the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget examined additional allocations to county governments, including conditional grants supporting climate-related interventions. Notably, the Committee considered allocations under the Financing Locally-Led Climate Action (FLLoCA) programme, which is aimed at strengthening county-level climate resilience, adaptation planning and community-driven climate investments.

(c) Human-Wildlife Conflict

169. The Standing Committee on Lands, Environment and Natural Resources considered Statements on human-wildlife conflict in Machakos, Makueni, Taita Taveta, Laikipia, Lamu, Nakuru, Kwale and Meru Counties. The key issues were delayed compensation, crop and livestock losses, conflict arising from shared resources and disruption of wildlife corridors. These matters intersect with agriculture and pastoral livelihoods indicative of the interconnected nature between wildlife conservation and land planning and settlement patterns.

(12) Healthcare and Public Health Management

170. Healthcare and public health management during the Fourth Session was driven primarily by the work of the Standing Committee on Health, whose legislative, oversight and inquiry-based activities provided a comprehensive assessment of the sector. The key highlights included—

(a) Health Financing and Universal Health Coverage

171. The Standing Committee on Health prioritised reforms aimed at strengthening health financing and advancing Universal Health Coverage. This included consideration of the Health (Amendment) Bill, 2025 (Senate Bills No. 12 of 2025) which sought to prohibit detention of patients over unpaid bills, and continuous oversight of the transition from the National Hospital Insurance Fund (NHIF) to the Social Health Insurance Fund (SHIF).

172. Through Statements, the Committee examined persistent challenges including delayed reimbursements to health facilities, pending claims, inefficiencies in the Social Health Insurance Fund system, and delays in approval of medical procedures, all of which have affected access to services and strained facility operations. These findings were reinforced by the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget, which identified inadequate allocations to the health sector and delays in disbursement of funds to counties, highlighting the structural constraints affecting the sustainability of Universal Health Coverage.

(b) Health Infrastructure and Service Delivery

173. Through its county oversight visits, the Standing Committee on Health assessed the state of health infrastructure and service delivery across counties including Kiambu, Makueni, Kitui, Bungoma, Busia, Marsabit, Wajir and Kilifi. The Committee observed significant disparities in infrastructure development, with some counties recording improvements while others faced severe deficits.

174. Issues emerging included dilapidated facilities, inadequate bed capacity, stalled and abandoned projects and non-functional or poorly maintained medical equipment, alongside shortages of essential commodities such as drugs, oxygen and vaccines. The Committee further noted gaps in specialised services, including maternal health, mental health, cancer treatment and neonatal care, underscoring inequities in access to healthcare services across counties.

(c) Procurement and Accountability

175. The Committee examined issues relating to procurement irregularities, mismanagement of medical supplies, and inefficiencies within institutions such as the Kenya Medical Supplies Authority (KEMSA). Specific issues included existence of expired drugs in public facilities, alleged tender irregularities, mismanagement in referral hospitals and the accumulation of pending bills owed to suppliers. These concerns were corroborated by findings of the County Public Accounts Committee and the County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee which identified unsupported expenditures, weak internal controls and non-compliance with public finance management frameworks within county health departments.

(d) Human Resources for Health and Labour Relations

176. The Standing Committee on Health examined critical human resource challenges affecting service delivery. The Committee highlighted issues including delayed payment of stipends to Community Health Promoters (CHPs), poor working conditions, and industrial unrest among healthcare workers across counties. Additional concerns included migration of skilled health professionals, unemployment of trained doctors, inequities in recruitment and promotion and disputes over professional regulation, as evidenced in the Petition by the Kenya Union of Clinical Officers (KUCO). These challenges reflect broader systemic weaknesses in workforce planning, coordination and management within devolved health systems.

(e) Public Health Risks

177. Public health concerns emerged prominently through the Committee's consideration of Statements addressing disease outbreaks, rising non-communicable diseases and systemic health risks. These included outbreaks of Kala-azar in Marsabit and Wajir Counties, increasing cancer cases and shortages of vaccines and essential medicines in public health facilities.
178. The Committee also examined broader risks such as antimicrobial resistance (AMR), cholera outbreaks, sanitation challenges and contamination of water sources, highlighting the intersection between public health, environmental factors and service delivery. Additionally, legislative interventions such as the Tobacco Control (Amendment) Bill, 2024 (Senate Bills No. 35 of 2024) further demonstrate efforts to strengthen preventive health and regulatory frameworks.

Photo 19: The Standing Committee on Health during knowledge-sharing engagement with the Kenya Paediatric Association and other health professionals

(f) Health Information Systems and Management

179. The Standing Committee on Health, complemented by the Standing Committee on Information and Communication Technology, examined the increasing integration of digital systems in healthcare delivery. The Committee interrogated issues relating to the shutdown of the Kenya Health Information System (KHIS), challenges in the rollout of digital platforms under the Social Health Authority, and governance concerns relating to telemedicine services, including county-level implementation. These findings highlighted challenges relating to system reliability, weak integration, dependence on external vendors and limited technical capacity within counties, raising concerns on efficiency, accountability and data protection and management.

(13) Education Delivery, Financing and Infrastructure

180. Education and skills development emerged as a critical thematic area during the Fourth Session, driven primarily by the work of the Standing Committee on Education, which conducted a countrywide inquiry into the implementation of Early Childhood Development Education and Vocational Training Centres (VTCs).

The Committee engaged key stakeholders including the Ministry of Education, Teachers Service Commission (TSC), Council of Governors and various agencies, highlighting systemic challenges across the education value chain. The key issues included—

(a) Curriculum Reforms and Competency-Based Education (CBC)

181. The Committee assessed the implementation of the Competency-Based Curriculum (CBC), including consideration of the proposed removal of Mathematics as a compulsory subject, mainstreaming of sports and talent development and broader curriculum reforms. Further, the Committee deliberated on concerns relating to Junior Secondary School (JSS) implementation, the new university funding model and the overall acceptability of Competency-Based Curriculum. These engagements revealed challenges in policy clarity, stakeholder preparedness, infrastructure readiness and consistency in implementation of curriculum reforms across counties.

(b) Education Financing and Access to Education

182. Education financing emerged as a major concern through Statements on delays in disbursement of capitation funds to Primary, Junior Secondary Schools, Senior Secondary Schools (SSS) and Technical Vocational Educational Training (TVET) institutions and broader concerns on the adequacy and predictability of funding. The Committee scrutinised proposals to increase school fees by the Kenya Secondary Schools Heads Association (KESSHA) as well as rising costs in accommodation and tuition fees in Technical Vocational Educational Training institutions and universities. Further, the Committee considered delayed disbursement of funds by the Higher Education Loans Board (HELB) and untimely closure of loans application systems for the HELB funding, which has significantly affected access to higher education funds.
183. The Standing Committee on Education considered Statements relating to financial crises in public universities, concerns over accreditation processes of degree programs, equity in placement to institutions such as Kenya Medical Training College (KMTC) through Kenya Universities and Colleges Central Placement Service (KUCCPS). The Committee further examined proposals on elevation of polytechnics to university status, raising concerns on quality assurance, regulatory compliance and sustainability.

(c) Educational facilities and Infrastructure

184. The Standing Committee on Education considered Statements regarding shortage of classrooms, delays in construction of Junior Secondary School facilities and inadequate learning environments in Kilifi, Wajir, Kirinyaga and Lamu Counties. The Committee identified widespread challenges relating to deteriorating infrastructure in public primary schools, Early Childhood Development Education centres and Junior Secondary Schools.
185. These issues were further reinforced through the Committee's inquiry into Early Childhood Development Education and Vocational Training Centres (VTCs) implementation, which revealed that many Early Childhood Development Education centres lack adequate classrooms, learning materials and trained personnel, undermining foundational learning outcomes.

(d) Teacher Welfare and Labour Relations

186. The Committee considered multiple Statements relating to teacher welfare, recruitment, remuneration and administrative management by the Teachers Service Commission (TSC). Key issues included delayed salaries, unpaid allowances, payroll irregularities and disparities in hardship as well as house allowance payments, particularly affecting teachers in arid and semi-arid areas.
187. Through follow-up on the Petitions concerning discrimination in payment of hardship allowances in Kilifi and Taita Taveta Counties, the Committee engaged the Ministry of Public Service and Human Capital Development and Special Programs, resulting in the initiation of a review of hardship area classification frameworks and commitments to regularise payments. Additional concerns emerged regarding irregular transfers, delayed promotions, challenges faced by contractual teachers, particularly in North Eastern Kenya, highlighting systemic human resource management gaps.

(e) Learner Safety

188. The Standing Committee on Education considered matters relating to concerns on safety of students in learning institutions, especially in boarding schools. These issues arose from Statements on the tragic death of a pupil in Kilifi County due to corporal punishment, deaths of two form four students in Siaya County, the death of a student in Eldama Ravine Baringo County and rising cases of student fatalities due to fires. Additionally, the Committee considered a Statement on allegations of misconduct against a senior teacher at Alliance Girls' High School. These issues highlighted gaps in enforcement of safety standards and protection of minors within learning institutions.

(f) Examinations and Certification

189. Through Statements, the Committee examined challenges relating to the administration of national examinations and certification processes, including delays in issuance of Kenya Certificate of Primary Education (KCPE) and Kenya Certificate of Secondary Education Certificates (KCSE), difficulties in replacement and authentication, and delayed payments to examination facilitators. The Committee also considered policy issues relating to the introduction of mid-year Kenya Certificate of Secondary Education Certificates examinations, raising concerns on preparedness, fairness and implications for learners and institutions.

(14) Regulatory Oversight

190. Regulatory oversight emerged as a critical cross-cutting thematic area during the Fourth Session, primarily driven by the work of the Select Committee on Delegated Legislation. The Committee scrutinised statutory instruments, conducted pre-publication scrutiny on various sectoral issues including health, environment, agriculture, housing, water and trade. The key highlights include—

(a) Statutory Instruments across Sectors

191. The Committee on Delegated Legislation considered Statutory instruments including the Social Health Insurance (Amendment) Regulations (Legal Notice No. 55-56 of 2025) relating to health sector reforms; The Environmental Management and Co-ordination (Amendments) Regulations (Legal Notice No. 19 – 24 of 2025) covering air quality, water quality, waste management, sand harvesting and extended producer responsibility; The Water (Services) Regulations (Legal Notice No. 54, 57 and 58 of 2025); The Affordable Housing Regulations (Legal Notice No. 114 of 2025); among others. Through this scrutiny, the Committee ensured that sector-specific regulations are consistent with parent Acts, aligned with constitutional provisions and do not impose undue burdens on citizens or institutions.

(b) Public Participation and Regulatory Impact Assessment

192. The Committee emphasised the requirement under the Statutory Instruments Act (Cap. 2A) for regulation-making authorities to conduct public participation and prepare regulatory impact assessments, particularly where regulations impose costs on the public. The Committee observed challenges including inadequate documentation of stakeholder consultations, failure by regulatory authorities to prepare regulatory impact assessments and limited transparency in the regulatory process.

(c) Compliance by Regulation-Making Authorities and Institutional Challenges

193. The Committee encountered persistent challenges in its oversight work, including delays by Ministries and regulatory authorities in submitting statutory instruments and supporting documentation, failure to transmit county-related instruments to the Senate and frequent postponement of meetings by State Agencies, affecting timely scrutiny. These challenges hindered effective oversight by the Committee. and, in some instances, resulted in statutory instruments being deemed approved due to lapse of statutory timelines, rather than substantive scrutiny. Non-compliance and delays by Executive Agencies therefore weakens Parliamentary oversight and risk the operationalisation of regulations without adequate scrutiny.

(d) Devolution and County-Level Regulatory Frameworks

194. Through county visits to Kwale, Mombasa, Kilifi, Tana River, Kajiado, Tharaka Nithi and Embu, the Select Committee on Delegated Legislation examined the development and scrutiny of subsidiary legislation at the county level, including processes of public participation, publication and transmission to county assemblies. The Committee noted gaps in capacity, procedural compliance and coordination between county executives and assemblies, affecting the quality and oversight of county-level regulations. In this respect the Committee noted that the absence of a legal framework to guide scrutiny of delegated legislation by county assemblies.

2.6 Cross-Cutting Systemic Trends Emerging from Committees

195. A holistic review of the outputs of the seventeen (17) Senate Committees during the Fourth Session reveals consistent and recurring patterns that transcend sectoral boundaries. These trends reflect deep structural characteristics of Kenya’s devolved governance system, as observed through legislative processes, audit scrutiny, committee inquiries, Statements, Petitions and county oversight visits. Collectively, they provide a comprehensive picture of both the progress and persistent constraints in the implementation of devolution, while underscoring the central role of the Senate in safeguarding constitutional governance. The emerging trends are as follows—

(1) Systemic Weaknesses in Public Finance Management

196. Across the work of the County Public Accounts Committee and the County Public Investments and Special Funds Committee, a clear pattern of systemic weaknesses in public finance management emerged. The scrutiny of over 398 audit reports revealed recurring issues including accumulation of pending bills amounting to approximately Kshs. 181.9 billion, procurement irregularities, unsupported expenditures and weak internal controls. These findings were reinforced by sectoral committees, particularly in health, infrastructure and agriculture, where financial inefficiencies translated directly into stalled projects and poor service delivery.

197. This trend demonstrates that while counties have been entrusted with significant fiscal responsibility, internal financial governance systems remain fragile. In exercising oversight over the use of national revenue allocated to counties, the Senate has directly fulfilled its mandate under Article 96(3) of the Constitution by exposing fiduciary risks and driving accountability reforms.

(2) Unpredictable and Delayed Fiscal Transfers

198. A persistent constraint across committees is the unpredictability and delay in disbursement of funds from the National Treasury to county governments. Evidence from the Standing Committee on Finance and Budget, corroborated by the County Public Accounts Committee and sectoral committees such as Health and Education, shows that delays in adherence to approved cash disbursement schedules disrupt programme implementation, delay payment of suppliers and salaries, and undermine service delivery.
199. This systemic challenge weakens county planning and budget execution, thereby constraining the effectiveness of devolved functions. Through its role in processing the Division of Revenue Bill, County Allocation of Revenue Bill and disbursement schedules, the Senate continues to safeguard intergovernmental fiscal relations in line with Articles 217 and 96 of the Constitution.

(3) Persistent Governance and Institutional Capacity Gaps

200. A recurring pattern across committees is the presence of governance and institutional capacity challenges within county governments. The Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations highlighted issues including unclear administrative roles, political interference, weak planning systems and strained relations between County Executives and County Assemblies. These findings were reinforced by audit committees which identified payroll irregularities, “ghost workers” and weak human resource management systems. Sectoral committees further observed shortages of skilled personnel, particularly in health and education.

201. This trend reflects structural weaknesses in county institutions that limit their ability to effectively deliver devolved services. Through continuous oversight and legislative engagement, the Senate has played a critical role in strengthening governance frameworks and protecting the integrity of devolved units under Article 96(1).

(4) Incomplete and Contested Delineation of Functions

202. The continued overlap of functions between national and county governments emerged as a significant structural issue. The Standing Committee on Devolution and Intergovernmental Relations established that several national government entities continue to perform functions that are constitutionally devolved, leading to duplication, inefficiencies and blurred accountability. Similar patterns were observed across sectoral committees in health, agriculture, infrastructure and ICT, where fragmented implementation and weak coordination mechanisms persist.
203. This trend undermines the autonomy of county governments and dilutes the effectiveness of devolution. Through legislative scrutiny and oversight, the Senate has sought to reinforce the constitutional division of functions under the Fourth Schedule.

(5) Service Delivery Deficits Across Devolved Sectors

204. Despite increased resource allocation, a consistent pattern across committees is the persistence of service delivery gaps. The Standing Committee on Health identified inequities in access to healthcare, inadequate infrastructure and shortages of essential supplies, while the Standing Committee on Education highlighted deficits in classrooms, delayed capitation and teacher shortages. Similarly, the Standing Committee on Agriculture, Livestock and Fisheries pointed to weak extension services and market systems, and the Standing Committee on Roads, Transportation and Housing identified stalled infrastructure projects and poor maintenance.

205. This trend reveals a disconnect between resource allocation and service delivery outcomes. Through sectoral oversight and county visits, the Senate has actively monitored implementation of devolved functions under the Fourth Schedule.

(6) Weak Regulatory Compliance and Enforcement

206. Across multiple sectors, a gap between legislative frameworks and actual enforcement emerged as a key trend. The Committee on Delegated Legislation identified delays in submission of statutory instruments, inadequate public participation and weak compliance by regulatory authorities. Similarly, the Standing Committee on Land, Environment and Natural Resources highlighted poor enforcement of environmental laws, while the ICT Committee identified gaps in enforcement of data protection regulations.

207. This pattern reflects broader institutional weaknesses in regulatory governance. Through scrutiny of statutory instruments and legislative oversight, the Senate has upheld the principles of rule of law, transparency and accountability under Article 10.

(7) Digital Transformation with Emerging Governance Risks

208. A notable emerging trend is the increasing reliance on digital systems in governance, particularly in public finance management, healthcare and service delivery. The Standing Committee on Information, Communication and Technology identified risks associated with externally controlled revenue systems, weak integration of digital platforms and vulnerabilities in data protection. These findings were echoed by the Health Committee in relation to digital health systems and by finance-related committees in relation to IFMIS.

209. While digital transformation offers efficiency gains, it also introduces new governance risks, including data breaches, revenue leakages and reduced institutional control. The Senate's legislative and oversight interventions are therefore critical in shaping a secure and accountable digital governance framework.

(8) Climate Change and Environmental Pressures as Systemic Risks

210. Climate change and environmental degradation emerged as cross-cutting challenges affecting multiple sectors. The Standing Committee on Land, Environment and Natural Resources identified issues relating to pollution, deforestation, water scarcity and weak environmental governance, while the Agriculture Committee linked climate stress to declining productivity and pastoral vulnerability. The National Security Committee further highlighted climate-related disasters such as floods and displacement.

211. This trend demonstrates that environmental risks are no longer isolated but are central to governance, livelihoods and service delivery. Through legislative and oversight roles, the Senate has contributed to advancing environmental sustainability and climate resilience in line with constitutional principles.

(9) Growing Emphasis on Equity, Inclusion and Social Justice

212. Across committees, there is a clear and growing focus on inclusivity and social justice. The Standing Committee on National Cohesion, Equal Opportunity and Regional Integration identified gaps in representation and access to opportunities for women, youth, persons with disabilities and minority communities. The Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights Committee and the Labour and Social Welfare Committee further highlighted issues relating to human rights violations, access to justice and social protection.

213. This trend reflects a shift towards evaluating governance not only in terms of efficiency, but also equity and fairness. These efforts directly advance the national values and principles of governance under Article 10.

(10) Expansion of Legislative and Policy Reform Agenda

214. The Fourth Session was marked by an expansion of legislative activity across sectors. Committees processed a wide range of Bills including those relating to health financing, agriculture, trade, ICT and constitutional reform. The Justice, Legal Affairs and Human Rights Committee led key constitutional amendment processes and electoral reform initiatives, while other committees advanced sector-specific legislative frameworks.

215. This trend reflects a proactive legislative agenda aimed at addressing emerging governance challenges and strengthening policy coherence. It demonstrates the Senate's central role in law-making under Article 94 and its responsibility to protect devolution.

(11) Strengthening of Participatory and Citizen-Centred Oversight

216. A notable positive trend is the strengthening of participatory governance mechanisms. Committees increasingly relied on public participation, stakeholder engagement and county visits, including through initiatives such as Senate Mashinani. These processes enabled direct engagement with citizens, local leaders and stakeholders, ensuring that legislative and oversight processes are informed by lived realities.

217. This trend enhances transparency, legitimacy and responsiveness in governance, and reflects the Senate's commitment to Article 118 on public participation.

(12) Increasing Interconnectedness of Sectoral Governance Issues

218. Finally, a defining trend across the Fourth Session is the growing interconnectedness of governance issues. Agriculture is linked to climate change and water management; health outcomes are tied to financing, infrastructure and ICT systems; trade and industrialisation intersect with agriculture, regulation and infrastructure; and security issues are connected to social and economic conditions. The work of the Committee on Delegated Legislation further demonstrated that regulatory frameworks cut across all sectors.

219. This interconnectedness underscores the need for integrated policy approaches and coordinated oversight strategies by the Senate. Through its committee system, the Senate has demonstrated its capacity to address these complex, cross-sectoral challenges in a holistic manner.

2.7 Opportunity Areas for the Fifth Session

220. To enhance the output and impact of Senate Committees during the Fifth Session, Committees may consider targeted engagement and interventions along the following thematic areas

- (1) Enhancing Healthcare System Efficiency and Coverage – Focus on improving healthcare financing, infrastructure and workforce management to achieve Universal Health Coverage (UHC).
- (2) Comprehensive Review of County Financial Management Systems – Assess and improve financial systems to enhance transparency and accountability in county budgets and expenditures.
- (3) Strengthening ICT Infrastructure and Cybersecurity Measures – There is need to invest in robust digital infrastructure and cybersecurity frameworks to protect data and support digital governance in the counties.
- (4) Promoting Sustainable Environmental Practices – Implement strategies for climate change mitigation, sustainable resource management and environmental conservation.
- (5) Addressing Persistent Security Challenges - Develop targeted interventions to combat insecurity, cattle rustling and banditry in vulnerable regions.
- (6) Supporting MSMEs and Cooperative Development - Provide targeted support to Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises and cooperatives to drive economic growth and job creation.
- (7) Improving Social Protection and Welfare Programs – Enact legislation to strengthen social protection mechanisms to ensure equitable access to welfare services and support for marginalized populations.

- (8) Facilitating Legislative Reforms for Better Governance - Expedite the passage of key bills and amendments to address governance and administrative challenges.
- (9) Enhancing Public Participation in Governance Processes - Foster greater public involvement in legislative and oversight processes through county visits and leveraging on technology to ensure inclusive and representative governance.
- (10) Developing Integrated Disaster Risk Management Frameworks - Create comprehensive policy and legislative frameworks to manage and mitigate disaster risks at both national and county levels effectively.

CHAPTER 3: KEY ACHIEVEMENTS, CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

3.1 Introduction

221. This section highlights key achievements, challenges and opportunities arising from the activities and output of Committees during the Fourth Session.

3.2 Key Achievements

222. Among the key achievements recorded by Committees during the Session were–

(1) Adherence to Constitutional and statutory timelines

223. There was tremendous improvement in the turn-around time for processing of legislative business by Committees during the Fourth Session. This was particularly the case with regard to processing of legislative business subject to set timelines, such as legislative proposals, Bills, Petitions, statutory instruments, audit reports, and vetting of nominees for appointment to public offices.

224. As examples, at the close of the Fourth Session –

- i) Committees had scrutinised and submitted comments on 82 out of 84 legislative proposals, reflecting a completion rate of 97.6%, as compared to 93.8% at the close of the Third Session;
- ii) Committees had considered and tabled Reports on 128 out of 148 Bills, representing a completion rate of 85.5%, as compared to 79.3% at the close of the Third Session;
- iii) Committees had considered and tabled Reports on 55 out of 73 Petitions, representing a completion rate of 75.3%, as compared to 59.3% at the close of the Third Session; and
- iv) Committees had considered to conclusion 994 out of 1,488 requests for Statements, representing a completion rate of 66.8%, as compared to 53.9% at the close of the Third Session.

225. Significantly, for the first time since the onset of devolution and the bicameral legislature in 2013, the Senate considered reports of the Auditor-General on the financial operations of the county governments and tabled the Reports thereon by the 31st March deadline, in compliance with Article 229 (8) of the Constitution and Section 50 (2) of the Public Audit Act (Cap. 412B).

(2) Inclusive Public Engagement in Legislative Processes

226. Committees adopted varied and innovative approaches to ensuring public participation and stakeholder engagement in consideration of legislative business before the Senate. This included –

- i) availing Bills under consideration by Committees in machine-readable and searchable texts, posting them alongside Bills Digests drafted in easy-to-understand language, expanding public advertisements on Bills to include the objects and overview of the Bills, and posting such notices on the Parliament website and social media platforms in addition to advertisements placed in newspapers with national circulation;
- ii) holding public hearings on the Bills in various counties and regions across the country, particularly in areas that would be most affected by the proposed legislative interventions;
- iii) meeting with key stakeholders and experts to obtain their input on the proposals under consideration; and
- iv) including in Committee reports detailed analysis of the comments received and how the same influenced the recommendations of the Committee to the Senate on the respective provisions.

227. These interventions enriched the quality of legislation introduced and passed by the Senate and strengthened public trust in the institution and work of Parliament.

(3) Addressing Public Concerns through Consideration of Senate Business

228. Committees addressed concerns from members of the public through the processing of public Petitions, Senators' requests for Statements, Committee inquiries as well as legislative and policy proposals received from the Executive and other stakeholders. Through these, Committees were able to interrogate key issues affecting the public and recommend interventions to address or resolve them.

229. Among the concerns addressed by Committees during the Session were minimum guaranteed returns for farmers, the state of infrastructure and funding for Early Childhood Development Education (ECDE) and Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET) institutions, implementation of Curriculum-Based Education (CBE), harmonization of hardship allowances for teachers and other public servants, the rollout of smart electricity meters, health products regulation and historical injustices and illegal land alienation.

(4) Investigating Key Issues for Informed Policy Interventions

230. Committees also commenced inquiries into topical issues falling within their mandates with a view to gaining a clear understanding of the issues and proposing interventions to resolve them.

231. Among the issues Committees inquired into during the Session were the operation of commercial bank accounts by county governments, equal opportunities in employment in the public service and the status of County Aggregated and Industrial Parks (CAIPs).

(5) Strengthening Devolution through Legislative Support

232. Committees consistently advanced the interests of the counties and their governments and worked to entrench and strengthen the devolved system of government. This was achieved by ensuring that legislation considered by the Senate adequately provided for the functions, mandates and financing of the county governments.

233. Among the legislation considered by Committees in this regard was on strengthening the frameworks for intergovernmental relations and the thresholds and procedure for removal from office of county officials. The Committee on Delegated Legislation also considered a significant number of statutory instruments and draft statutory instruments which, among others, clarified the functions and mandates of the county governments.

(6) Transparent County Resource Management Oversight

234. Committees carried out effective oversight over the operations of the county governments, comprising the county executives, county assemblies, as well as entities and funds established through county legislation. This ensured that the resources raised by or allocated to the counties were utilized in a transparent and accountable manner for the benefit of citizens.
235. Among the areas considered by Committees during the Session were the status of county revenue automation systems including weaknesses and gaps in their operation, the establishment and management of county special funds, the management and financial operations of municipalities and urban areas and the status of water service providers.
236. These inquiries addressed persistent issues in fund management across the counties, particularly in bursary disbursement and loan recovery, identified widespread autonomy challenges in municipalities affecting their operational efficiency, confronted significant financial and operational irregularities in county hospitals and addressed complex governance issues in the water sector, including asset transfer problems.

(7) Field-Based Evaluation of Devolved Functions

237. Committees undertook county oversight and networking engagements where Members witnessed first-hand the implementation of devolved functions including their successes and challenges.
238. Some of the aspects considered included crop-related issues, early childhood education and vocational training, health facilities and services, technological innovations in financial management and employment creation, environmental and wildlife conservation, security issues and disaster management and preparedness.

(8) Global Diplomatic Engagement for National Interests

239. Committees engaged in parliamentary diplomacy both through hosting visiting delegations as well as participating in meetings, workshops and conferences of inter-parliamentary organizations where they presented perspectives and advanced Kenya's foreign policy positions and interests.

240. The achievements recorded by each Committee are detailed in the matrix attached as Annex 1.

3.3 Challenges and Opportunities for the Fifth Session

241. Some of the key challenges experienced by Committees during the Fourth Session and corresponding opportunities for the Fifth Session are as follows –

(1) Engagement with the Public, National and County Entities in Enriching the Legislative Output of the Senate

242. Ministries, Departments, Agencies (MDAs) and county entities often delayed in submitting necessary information or responses to legislative business before Committees. Some of the responses received did not adequately address the issues raised by the Committees and MDAs failed to provide clarification and supplementary information when sought.

243. In some instances, MDAs and County entities failed to honour invitations to appear before Committees, submit reports and documents, or comply with financial management standards which affected processing of legislative business.

244. Further, requests for submission of Memoranda were not responded to in a timely manner by stakeholders and members of the public which frustrated effective public participation and conclusion of legislative business before Committees.

245. To address these challenges, it is recommended that Senate Committees-

- a) Enhance structured collaboration with the State Department for Parliamentary Affairs and the Council of Governors to better track and monitor the submission of information and documents sought by Committees, including submissions on Bills, Petitions and inquiries as well as responses to Senators' requests for Statements.

- b) Enforce stricter penalties for non-compliance by MDAs and county entities in appearing before and submitting information required by committees.
- c) Enhance liaison and continuous engagement with stakeholders across their respective thematic areas.
- d) Encourage active participation and timely responses from the public and relevant stakeholders through leveraging on technology, mainstream and alternative media.
- e) Avail explainers and simplified versions of Bills and other legislative business before Committees, including translations of documents in Kiswahili, to enhance understanding and participation by stakeholders and the public.

(2) Budgetary Constraints

246. Inadequate financial resources greatly constrained committees from carrying out their activities, including undertaking effective public participation on legislative business before committees and carrying out oversight functions.

247. To address this challenge, it is proposed that-

- a) The Liaison Committee to hold structured engagements with the Parliamentary Service Commission, the National Assembly Budget and Appropriations Committee as well as the National Treasury and Economic Planning to ensure adequate funding for Senate Committees in executing their legislative and oversight functions.
- b) Senate Committees to leverage on existing collaborative frameworks with MDAs and the county governments including through the use of MDAs and county facilities for public participation.

(3) Quorum Challenges

248. Committees reported difficulty in achieving the required number of members for meetings, leading to adjournments of meetings and delaying the timely consideration and conclusion of legislative business.

249. To address this, it is recommended that Committees implement strategies to improve member attendance to scheduled committee meetings and activities such as through hybrid and early morning meetings.
